

NEWS RELEASE

For Immediate Release | (your community) - (date)

Spend an hour at lunch to learn about key business issues!

Community Futures (your name) will be unveiling some new technology to the business community this fall. (Your name) recently implemented video-conferencing technology in their (community name) office and plans to deliver a series of business learning sessions in the fall and winter of 2008. Video-conferencing is a great way to bring the knowledge of top-notch business experts to rural clients. The Community Futures program along with Women Entrepreneurs and Business Infosource will be partnering to deliver this Brown Bag Lunch series.

Learn at Lunch-time!

Beginning September 10th, topics such as Search Engine Optimization, Is Your Business Making Money, Starting a Business, Your Management Team and Stop Looking in Your Rearview Mirror will be covered during the noon-hour workshops. Scheduled for the second and fourth Wednesday of each month, these sessions are a great opportunity to learn and network with other managers and business people. There is no fee for this service and participants should bring their own brown bag lunch.

"We're very pleased to provide this training to the community. The video-conferencing technology is a great way to connect our clients with some high quality presenters and important topics," comments (name, position). Video-conferencing is also available for use by the business community.

For more information about video-conferencing or to register for the upcoming Brown Bag Lunches, contact Community Futures (your name) at (phone #).
